

Flexible Working

Created at: 26.02.2019
Created by: Scout 4strat
Modified at: 24.05.2020
Modified by: Alun Rhydderch

Description

The 9 to 5 job is a thing of the past as working hours and working conditions become more flexible. From working time accounts with temporary time off (e.g. to take care of the family) to part-time work to flexible freelancer concepts, employees now prefer to adapt their workload to their personal situation. The concept of digital nomads, who can work from anywhere with nothing but their laptops, is enjoying growing popularity. The Gig Economy has also led to an increase in the number of micro jobbers as different platforms bring tasks and employees together. The consequence for employers is that they have to compete with each other to attract and retain the best talent.

Tags

flexibility modern work work-life-balance

STEEP

- Social
- Technological
- Economical

Links

TRENDS

Gig Economy
Local Life and Green Economy
The new Economy
Virtual Living